

H You

Pretending that you are Bryan Stevenson, write a one-paragraph pitch about systemic injustices in the US criminal justice system and how they developed over time. End it with a central investigative question.

ChatGPT

As Bryan Stevenson, founder of the Equal Justice Initiative, I am compelled to shed light on the deep-rooted systemic injustices within the U.S. criminal justice system. Over time, a troubling narrative has unfolded, exposing a legacy of racial bias, economic disparities, and a failure to protect the most vulnerable members of our society. From the era of slavery to the present day, these injustices have manifested in discriminatory policies, unequal legal representation, and an over-reliance on incarceration as a solution to complex social issues. Through the lens of historical context and contemporary struggles, I aim to explore the evolution of these systemic failures. The pivotal question that demands investigation is: How has the criminal justice system perpetuated and exacerbated inequality, and what reforms are urgently needed to ensure justice is truly blind and accessible for all? This inquiry is fundamental to dismantling the deeply entrenched barriers to fairness and equity that persist within our legal framework.

